

Lauren Dunne
4/13/11

Cultural mapping: a technique to look at the preservation of indigenous homelands that has been expanded to using new data that goes beyond cartographic techniques that now includes anthropological, sociological, archeological, genealogical entries. They appear to look like tenure maps but serve a purpose to look at cultural identity and community.

(195)

Cargo conservation

a form of conservation based on the provision of goods ("cargo") such as schools, clinics, boats + community centers in exchange for compliance to a conservation agenda imposed by an ~~extreme~~ external group - main problem with this is that the local incentive for conservation shifts from food + security

Suzy Englob

4/18/11

Soft exiction - limiting of local resource use that is tantamount to displacement. Indigenous peoples are often denied access to vital substance resources without adequate compensation.

Preston Hartwick

Apr. 18 2011

(IPA) Indigenous Protected Area: Ch. 18

~~is~~ a voluntary process of indigenous people claiming, mapping, and setting the rules for conservation with the government's support as long as the IPs develop a management plan committed to conserving biodiversity