

When you read excerpts from the article “The Savage Can also Be Ignoble” about the ways that Kayapo leaders have utilized their environment in unsustainable ways, what is your response? Does this hint that indigenous peoples are not the optimal partners of Western environmentalists?